

Some outrage patriotism and decency by drinking intoxicating liquor?" Representative Upshaw, however, got a rebuff that dumfounded him today when Representative Tinkham (Rep., Mass.), submitted to the house a copy of a letter which Representative Upshaw had received from M. B. Wellborn, governor of the Federal Reserve bank at Atlanta, in reply to Upshaw's request for Wellborn's statement on the great good prohibition has done Atlanta.

This Letter He Overlooked.
According to Wellborn, it has not done any. "Drinking almost universal," says Wellborn, "nearly every family with whiskey in its home; drunkenness increased enormously; federal prison full to overflowing; the boot-legger ubiquitous."

At first Upshaw denied to the house that he had ever asked Wellborn for the information in question, but later, by reference to his files, found he had. He now doubts whether he ever received Wellborn's reply, but is investigating.

Wellborn, in any case, took the precaution to send a copy of his letter to the house and leader, Tinkham, and today Tinkham, believing Upshaw was holding out, read the reply into the record.

The Anti-Saloon league's executive committee issued a statement today assailing the accuracy of newspaper polls on prohibition, asserting the "thirty minority" was the most active in straw balloting. This led Representative Celler (Dem., N. Y.) to say he felt it necessary to "call as a lie" the assertion that friends of prohibition did not participate in such polls and cited instances to prove their participation. "The league knows it is defeated and, like a whipped dog, now has its tail between its legs," Mr. Celler said.

Chicago Drys Report Victory.
At the department of justice the dry adherents got great comfort from a batch of fresh statistics from Chicago which showed on the authority of the United States district attorney at Chicago these activities for eighteen months of prohibition enforcement:

"We have turned over to the United States marshal more than thirty car loads of criminals headed for Leavenworth; we closed eighteen breweries in twelve months; we padlocked for a year more than 1,500 separate buildings of a value of more than $25,000,000; in eighteen months we convicted more than 2,000 illegal purveyors of poison and during that same period we had less than twenty acquittals."

"We also collected more than $1,000,000 in fines, penalties, and forfeitures."

The United States marshal at Chicago also informs the department of justice that more than twenty permanent injunctions are issued in Chicago

LEAGUE OF NATIONS DENIES PROBE OF U. S. LIMITS ON COURT

GENEVA, March 11.—(U.P.)—The problem of America's adherence in the permanent court of international justice continued to agitate league of nations circles today, with numerous officials and interested delegates trying to prevent the birth of any misunderstanding in the United States as a result of reports that the council had decided to appoint a committee to investigate the American senate's reservations.

So keen was the anxiety to prevent untoward results of these reports that the secretary of the league issued a formal denial, an event rare in the history of the league. This formal repudiation of the stories, which were published in newspapers here and abroad, was followed by a second denial by the four jurists whose informal conversations yesterday gave currency to the rumors. The jurists reiterated that they had engaged merely in an unofficial exchange of views. They are Sir Cecil Hurst of Great Britain, M. Sugimura of Japan, M. Fromageot of France, and Sig. Belotti of Italy, the league's drafting committee.

Some delegates expressed the fear that the appointment of any committee, however unofficial, would be misinterpreted by the American people. They pointed out if jurists representing the states which have adhered to the court are to examine the American reservations an American jurist should be invited to sit with them.

Keep Out of Polls: Drys.

South Bend, Ind., March 11.—(Special.)—The South Bend Ministerial association today adopted a resolution requesting their congregations not to take part in straw ballots on proposals to amend the Volstead act. The polls being conducted by the South Bend Tribune shows a ratio of three to one in favor of modification.

SOCIETY CUTS BUTLER FOR HIS ARREST OF HOST

It Isn't Done, San Diego
Leaders Declare.

San Diego, Cal., March 11.—(Special.)—Social ostracism already is being visited upon Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, the deposed Philadelphia director of public safety and now commander of the marine base here. Local leaders are aroused by what is generally held to be Butler's unethical charge of intoxication against Col. Alexander Williams of the fourth regiment, marines, after an alleged cocktail party at the Williams home in Coronado, where Gen. Butler was the honor guest.

While it is pointed out that invitations cannot be withheld from Gen. Butler because of his high rank, it is said that there is nothing to prevent social leaders from cutting affairs where he is a guest. The first step in this direction was taken today when invitations issued by a prominent matron to a function honoring the Butlers were flatly declined by virtually all who rate socially in San Diego and in the trans-bay service set.

Friends Excuse Him.

Friends of the general, principally in the reform element, attempted to point out that he did not base his complaint, demanding a court martial of Col. Williams, on events at the party held in the Williams home—which is not on the military reservation—but upon actions of the colonel at the Hotel Del Coronado following the party. This effort, however, was met coldly by friends of Col. Williams who assert that the general was still the colonel's guest.

Witnesses to the affair at the Hotel Del Coronado conflict in their statements. One story, to the effect that Gen. Butler was compelled to have the colonel carried from the hotel, is current, while the more sensational report that poisoned liquor entered into the affair is quite generally believed.

Colonel Wasn't Boisterous.

One witness said the colonel was quite normal when the party went to

WHEAT ADVANCES 7 CENTS ON BUYING BY EASTERN BULLS

Aggressive buying by eastern traders, with Jesse Livermore credited as the leader, yesterday advanced May wheat 7½ cents over the low of Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Closing trade was brisk, with prices within a fraction of the best of the day. Final prices for the May delivery were $1.62½ to $1.62½. July was $1.41½ to $1.41½ and September $1.25½.

Many Chicago traders, who had been on the selling side of the market on the preceding day, reversed themselves shortly after the opening, when the buying from the east became pronounced. Chief factor in the advance was the strength displayed by the foreign markets. Liverpool, Buenos Aires, and Winnipeg all were sharply higher.

Action of the corn market was a disappointment to traders, in view of the encouragement offered by wheat. It closed a half cent lower, with May 77½ to 78 cents and July 81½ cents. Oats and rye both closed higher.

the hotel, but that immediately after partaking of a drink he became violently ill and it was necessary to call a physician. It is said by numerous witnesses that the colonel at no time was boisterous or guilty of discourtesy.

Another rumor today was that Gen. Butler's action was merely the culmination of a long standing feud between him and the colonel, born of a disagreement in Haiti.

Gen. Butler, urged by Los Angeles reformers to help clean up the southern California metropolis, curtly declined to do so.

ITALY ADOPTS MUSSOLINI LAW TO BAR STRIKES

All but Fascist Labor Unions Wiped Out.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

(Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune.)

ROME, March 11.—Cooperation between capital and labor and recognition of each other's needs is the slogan of the Fascist industrial unions, Premier Mussolini declared in an impassioned appeal to the senate today to pass the Fascist capital and labor bill.

By a vote of 139 to 27 the proposals were accepted and will become law with the king's signature. Under the new law the Fascist labor unions will become the only recognized labor unions in Italy, replacing the old Socialist unions, already done away with, and the Catholic unions, which still exist. The law, which also established labor magistrates and compulsory arbitration, is expected to end all strikes.

Premier Mussolini attacked the Socialist doctrines, denied that the workers and masses of the world were real internationalists, and urged the cooperation of capital and labor for the national good. The 2,000,000 workers, peasants, and industrial laborers who now belong to the Fascist unions obey the government, he declared.

Scores Gompers' Ideas.

"I know what the masses think and what they want," he said. "The war gave all the Italians national consciousness."

"It is not true that the proletariat is international. Did not the teaching and tactics of Samuel Gompers in America, even though they were the most egoistic expression of proletarian chauvinism, lead to demonstrations of intrinsically exclusiveness toward all nations and all races?"

"It is always the higher classes who are the earth, are sufficiently human not to appreciate the so-called modern comforts. They remain passionately attached to the nation of their origin."

Recognizes Capitalism's Functions.

"Fascist unionism recognized the historical function of capital and capitalism. On this point we are completely anti-Socialist. According to the Socialist doctrine the capitalists are vampires. According to our teaching this is only false reading."

"Capitalism not only is not retrograding, but is not yet at its dawn. We must become accustomed to think that this capitalist system, with all its virtues and faults, has several centuries of existence before it. Even when capitalism has been done away with it is returning."

"The Socialist conception, which personifies capitalism in special individuals, and taught that these individuals found delight in exploiting the proletariat, are laughable."

"Generals of Industry."

"The modern capitalists are generals of industry, great organizers, men who have and must have a high regard for civil and moral responsibilities, men on whom future health, happiness, and wages for thousands of individuals depend. The success of their industry is the success of the nation."

"Declaring that the power of amassing wealth is unlimited but the power of its enjoyment is definitely bounded, Premier Mussolini continued:

"One of the most comic teachings of the socialist literature was the attempted dogma that happiness of man depends alone more or less on the satisfaction of his material needs. That is absurd. Capitalism has a function which Fascist unionism fully recognizes. It also recognizes everything tied up with the fate of the nation, and when that is impotent and disoriented all feel the consequences and must assume an attitude of humility and resignation, as it was in Italy for more than twenty years."

Need One Another.

"Class collaboration is another fundamental of Fascist syndicalism. Capital and labor are not enemies. They are classes which are complementary to one another. They cannot live without each other."

"Today we are approaching state control of all the forces of industry, agriculture, banks, labor, and our experiences make us confident that the experiment will succeed."

Premier Mussolini concluded with a declaration that even one hour lost through strike in one factory was a national catastrophe.

KANSAS FEARS VOLCANO AS BED OF RIVER SINKS

Bottomless Pit Is Getting Wider.

Sharps Springs, Kas., March 11.—

The "bottomless pit" which suddenly yawned Tuesday morning in a bend of the Smoky Hill river four miles southeast of here gradually is sucking in the earth 500 feet around. A jagged fissure is encircling the gigantic hole, which now is about 150 feet long and 100 feet wide and nobody knows how deep.

Since the hole opened with a low rumble, water has risen forty or fifty feet out of the depths. It is pale green. On its surface floats a white cow which went down when the earth opened.

Whiffs of sulphur, very much like the odor of gunpowder, float up at intervals, while patches of bubbles, which many believe are caused by gas, appear on the surface.

Some old citizens believe the disturbance is the last spatter of an almost extinct volcano. Indeed, the topography of the vicinity tends to substantiate their theory.

Miss Sylvia Forshey, daughter of a

UNCLE SAM FILES SUIT TO CANCEL 16 'GAS' PATENTS

New York, March 11.—[Special.]—

Suit for the cancellation of sixteen patents on the "cracking" of gasoline on the ground that they were obtained by fraud and held illegally for the collection of royalties in a business involving "hundreds of millions of dollars" was filed today in the United States District court, Brooklyn, by the United States government against Joseph H. Adams, holder of the patents, and the Texas company, assignee.

The Texas company is charged with knowing that the patents were obtained by fraud. The government has been expected to bring the action since the discontinuance of a similar one recently in Chicago to permit an amendment to the complaint and so that the government might investigate reports of efforts to intimidate government witnesses.

Litigation over the cracking of gasoline from crude oil has been complicated for many years. It was said, because of the numerous claims to the ownership and control of the processes now in use. Many prominent oil refiners, it was reported, recently have pooled their complaints and have consented to take the subject into the courts at Baltimore to have the question of alleged infringement settled.

Gold Coast Moron Caught After Fight with 2 Cops

Hundreds of automobiles were halted at the height of the after-theater rush last night while two policemen and a volunteer assistant struggled in the middle of Michigan boulevard at Pearson street with an infuriated man who had seized a young woman and attempted to drag her away from the lights of the thoroughfare.

After ten minutes of battling, in which the moron showed unusual power, the policemen, Richard Nash and John Walsh of the Chicago avenue station, felled him and dragged him to the sidewalk, permitting the lines of automobiles to move forward again.

Tries to Attack Police Officer.

The man gave his name as Roy Freeland, 46 years old, 755 North Dearborn street. He was still in a combative mood when he reached the police station. When Lieut. Edward Kelly attempted to question him he seized an ink bottle and attempted to hurl it at the officer. Four policemen seized him and threw him into a cell.

Miss Harriet Wester, 20 years old, a maid in the home of Charles N.

Strots, 999 Lake Shore drive, was the victim of the attempted attack. She was walking along the boulevard on her way home when Freeland, without warning, seized her.

Her screams attracted the attention of Earl Flannery, a chauffeur, 1865 Wilson avenue, who was leaving the Tower garage on Chicago avenue. He ran to Miss Wester's assistance and freed her from Freeland's grip.

The Battle Is On.

As she continued to scream Flannery and Freeland fought along the sidewalk and out into the boulevard. Then Policemen Walsh and Nash, who were walking along Chicago avenue, also heard.

They took a hand. The battle went from one side of the pavement to the other, with Freeland holding his end of the unequal struggle in a frenzied manner. Nash and Walsh were finally compelled to knock him out before he could be placed under arrest.

Miss Wester accompanied the officers to the station and made a formal complaint against Freeland. He is a waiter at the Casino club.

PRINCE'S $50,000 GIFT IS ISSUE IN CHICAGO DIVORCE

Daughter Tells Romance with Potentate.

Details of her romance with a Persian prince, a reputed multi-millionaire, were narrated for the first time last night by Mrs. Gertrude Dolan Whitmore of New York, former Chicago girl, who testified at a hearing before Master in Chancery Cornelius J. Harrington in the divorce suit of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dolan of River Forest, against Thomas C. Dolan, head of the printing company bearing his name.

Mrs. Whitmore, the wife of Horace Whitmore, manager of a sugar refining company in New York, returned to her home at Kew Gardens, Long Island, immediately after the hearing. The night session was held because of her plea that she and her husband are about to leave for a tour of South Africa.

Princely Courtship Gifts.

The suit involves the ownership of the Dolan home at 414 Williams street, River Forest. This property, valued at $50,000, was a gift of Prince Victor Vichit of Persia. Mrs. Whitmore testified that the prince gave her $25,000, two expensive automobiles and the River Forest home in an attempt to win her as his wife. She later gave the home to her mother.

Under cross-examination by Attorneys Payton J. Tuohy and William P. Fortune, who represented Dolan, Mrs. Whitmore told of her romance with the prince. When she was 20 years old, back in 1915, she said, she was a dancer, making a world tour. Prince Vichit saw her in Bombay, became enamored of her, followed her to London, Paris, and finally to her home in Chicago, she said. They were engaged to be married and his expensive gifts followed. Then the prince's wife appeared and the engagement was broken.

Gave Daughter a Spanking.

Mrs. Dolan then took the stand and testified that the prince lived with the Dolans at the River Forest home for three years.

"One day," she said, "I arrived home to find the house in confusion and the prince chasing Gertrude around with a Persian saber."

Mrs. Dolan told how she became angered at a series of parties her daughter gave after the prince's departure. She spanked the girl soundly one evening, she said, and since then mother and daughter have been estranged.

Mrs. Whitmore before her departure to New York in 1922 gave the River Forest home to her mother. She testified that she intended the property to be owned jointly by her father and mother, although legal title was given to the mother.

Dolan in his answer to his wife's suit claimed half the property.

TEXTILE STRIKE BACKED BY REDS, OWNERS ASSERT

New York, March 11.—(Special.)—Charging that the strike in the Passaic and other New Jersey textile mills, which has been under way and gradually gaining momentum since early in January, was fomented and organized as a communist demonstration rather than a bona fide strike, leaders among the mill owners remained adamant today against efforts at mediation.

Ex-German Crown Prince in Mystery Trip to Milan

MILAN, Italy, March 11.—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany paid a flying visit to Milan last night. He left in a few hours, causing much wonder concerning the reasons for his trip. It was learned that he was traveling in the strictest incognito and that he has returned to the Villa Rocabella, near Locarno, Switzerland, where he is now living.

MYSTERY MAN SHADOWS HIM; DIVORCE PAPERS

Kell McDowell, 37, who has been living at 1806 Dempster street, Evanston, for the last four months, reported to the police on March 9 that he was being dogged by a mysterious pursuer. McDowell feared that his life was in danger, and the police tried to find the stranger. They had no success until yesterday. McDowell called again and said the man was close on his trail. Police rushed to the scene and found that the stranger was Deputy Sheriff Louis S. Becker, trying to serve notice on McDowell that his wife had sued him for divorce.

SENATE OR SWEEPING ON TARIFF

Progressive Rep Be on Comm

(Chicago Tribune Press) Washington, D. C., March 11.—Administration for today when the Senate is expected to vote on a resolution for a special commission by a special commission to be controlled by the President and two members of the committee on Finance, one "Progressive" and two Democrats, first time official cognate action of the Senate on the two Republic.

See Probable Cause If the Vice President, "Progressive" Republican, one of the La Follette group, a probable alliance between the two Democratic majorities would throw the investigation into the controversy of the administration. The outcome probably part to the Senate committee members of the tariff and alleged manipulation tariff in the interest of industries.

The resolution was sponsored by Senator Robinson (Dem., A. C.). Its adoption would mean an effort by the anti-administration Republicans into the controversy of high and low tariff measure commission, which that body in a turmoil of adoption of the flexible tariff of the 1922 tariff act.

Object to Progress Administration Republican did not object to an investigation, but it should be by the finance committee. Senator Smoot (Rep., known to be controlled by the Democrats) objected to the proposal that one of the members on the special commission be a Progressive. This was defeated by Senator King as an amendment to the resolution and Senator Robinson, provoked debate.

The test vote came when Senator Bingham (Dem., A. C.), a regular Republican, to a "progressive" Republican. This was defeated by a Democratic vote for 10 and ten Republicans and Labor member joined in opposing it. In very few times this season, a vote that the forces have failed to obtain enough Democrats to obtain of Republicans.

SENATE ORDERS SWEEPING QUIZ ON TARIFF BOARD

Progressive Republican to Be on Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Administration forces met a defeat today when the senate adopted a resolution for a sweeping investigation of the conduct of the tariff commission by a special committee which is likely to be controlled by an insurance Republican and two Democrats.

The President Daves, under the terms of the resolution, must name as members of the committee two regular Republicans, one "Progressive Republican" and two Democrats. For the first time official cognizance is taken by action of the senate of a distinction between the two Republican groups.

See Probable Censure.
If the Vice President selects as the "Progressive Republican" member one of the La Follette group it means a probable alliance between this member and the two Democrats. The resulting majority would be certain to oppose the investigation wide open to the administration.

The outcome probably would be a report to the senate censuring Republican members of the tariff commission for alleged manipulation of the flexible tariff in the interest of favored industries.

The resolution was sponsored by Senator Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader. Its adoption marked the culmination of an effort by Democrats and anti-administration Republicans to inquire into the controversies between high and low tariff members of the tariff commission, which have kept that body in a turmoil ever since the adoption of the flexible tariff provisions of the 1922 tariff act.

Object to Progressive.
Administration Republican senators did not object to an investigation, but declared that it should be conducted by the finance committee, headed by Senator Smoot [Rep., Utah], and known to be controlled by conservatives. They objected seriously to the proposal that one of the three Republicans on the special committee should be a Progressive. This proposal, offered by Senator King [Dem., Utah], was an amendment to the original Robinson resolution and accepted by Senator Robinson, provoked a three hour debate.

The test vote came on an amendment by Senator Bingham [Conn.], regular Republican, to strike out the "progressive Republican" requirement. This was defeated, 29 to 41. Not one Democrat voted for the amendment and ten Republicans and one Farmer-Labor member joined with 30 Democrats in opposing it. It was one of a very few times this session on an important vote that the administration forces have failed to obtain help from enough Democrats to offset the defection of Republicans.

The ten Republicans voting against the Bingham amendment were Senators

F. L. WRIGHT CONFIRMS OFFER OF HOME IN PARIS FOR HIS WIFE

Frank Lloyd Wright, in response to a message asking for comment on the recent statement of his wife, Miriam Noel Wright, that he had offered her a home in Paris and $200 a month if she'd get a divorce quietly, last night sent the following telegram from Tallahassee, his home at Spring Green, Wis.:
"Thank you. Miriam Noel has at no time had less than the prospect you say she says she has now. When she tires of publicity she may accept it or not, as the case may be.—Frank Lloyd Wright."

Mrs. Wright, in her apartment at the Southmoor hotel, reiterated her previous statement.
"I never shall divorce him," she said, "to permit him to marry Olga Miljanoff, the woman I am positive he has fled to."

The Wright divorce suit, called in the Madison (Wis.) court yesterday, was postponed and will not be heard for at least two weeks.

Adopt Norris Amendment.

The senate, by a vote of 38 to 30, approved an amendment by Senator Norris, directing the committee to inquire into appointments of members of the commission "and report to the senate whether any attempt has been made to influence the official action of members by any official of the government and, if so, what were the means or methods so used."

This was construed as referring to the request said to have been made by President Coolidge that David J. Lewis, a former Democratic member of the commission, signed his resignation in advance of being given a recess appointment, while the sugar investigation was in progress. After meeting defeat on these two roll calls the regular Republicans did not insist upon a record vote on the adoption of the resolution as amended.

Vice President Daves did not announce his selections for the special committee. Senator Norris who was the most active of the progressive group in demanding an investigation, announced in the senate that he would not accept appointment on the committee.

SUICIDE IN ROME RECALLS TRAGEDY OF U. S. LAWYER

Identified as Murderer
Sentenced in Germany.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, March 11.—[Police tonight declared that by his finger prints they have identified the American who committed suicide in the Trevi Garden, Rome, on Feb. 6, as Prof. Carl Haw, formerly of George Washington university. If their identification is correct, the suicide marks a tragic end of a sensational career, one which interested both the old and new worlds.

Carl Haw was born Karl Hau, in a Rhine-land village. He changed his name when he became professor of Roman law at George Washington university and a leading Washington lawyer.

Prof. Haw was charged with murdering his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor, while on a trip to Baden, Germany. After being sentenced to death, the Kaiser commuted his sentence. After fifteen years' imprisonment, he was released.

Recently the professor had difficulties with the police over money matters. He fled to Italy on a forged passport, which Rome discovered last January. After failing to secure a real passport.

The Molitor murder occurred in November, 1904. His mother-in-law was called on the telephone by a German-American voice. When Frau Molitor went to meet a supposed postoffice official she was shot from ambush. Prof. Haw was arrested in a London hotel.

Police charged Prof. Haw had returned to Germany because he had fallen in love with his wife's younger sister. Frau Molitor did her utmost to separate the professor from her daughter, and police said the murder was committed to get rid of the mother-in-law.

The trial caused a sensation in Germany and the United States. There were riots outside the courtroom while Prof. Haw was being tried. Mrs. Haw committed suicide in Switzerland during the trial.

WOMAN POISON SLAYER ADMITS KILLING 2 MORE

Old Crimes Bared at Prison Gate.

Flora, Ill., March 11.—[Special.]—State's Attorney Harold S. Williams told the Associated Press tonight that Mrs. Elsie Bible Malinsky, under life sentence for the poison murder of the former wife of her husband, has made a further confession substantially admitting two other poison murders and attempting a fourth one.

Confronted with circumstantial evidence county authorities had obtained since her first confession to the poison murder of Mrs. Laura May Malinsky last fall, the woman broke down late yesterday, the state's attorney said, and made a further confession.

Killed Another Woman.
Williams said she did not make a complete confession, but substantially admitted that about fifteen years ago she poisoned and killed the wife of Havill Bible in order that she might marry him, and that about three years ago she fatally poisoned Bible when she became dissatisfied with him as a husband.

The woman is 44 years old and has had three husbands. Her first husband, Wilbur Cope, divorced her about eighteen years ago, after, it was alleged, she had made an unsuccessful attempt to poison him, Williams said.

Was Malinsky's Housekeeper.
She later became the housekeeper of Ernest L. Malinsky, a locomotive engineer, and gave poison to his wife, which resulted in her death last Sept. 26. She married Malinsky a few weeks later, and her arrest recently followed the exhuming of the first Mrs. Malinsky's body and examination of the viscera.

Charges Son-in-Law with Con Game; $2,000 Is Spent

Charging that his son-in-law, Frank C. Haak, 42 years old, 6612 South Bishop street, squandered $2,000 which he had intrusted to him for safe keeping, Julius Voss, 4959 Princeton avenue, yesterday swore out a warrant against the former, alleging confidence game.

"The staggering cost of bringing up my four daughters led me to do it," Haak told police. Haak was arrested by his father-in-law a short time ago on the same charge.

COURT MAY HOLD BUYER AS LIABLE AS BOOTLEGGERS

Record of Name of Patron
Involved in Law.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Buyers are liable to prosecution as bootleggers, the government attorneys argued in the Supreme court today, if the latter fail to keep records of their sales available to the government for inspection.

The government contention had been overthrown in the lower courts, but lawyers who listened to questions from the Supreme bench today got the impression that the high court might take a different view of the issue.

The controversy arose in Philadelphia when the government sought to prosecute Jacob Katz, George Senn, and Herman Fierstein for conspiracy charges that Katz had sold liquor to the other men without keeping a record of the sales, including their names and addresses.

Quashed in Pennsylvania. The federal district court for eastern Pennsylvania quashed the indictment, holding that the section of the Volstead act requiring the keeping of records of sales related only to permit seizures.

Questions and suggestions from the bench were frequent during today's argument, with Chief Justice Taft and Justices Holmes, Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland, Sanford, and Brand taking part. Many of them seemed to emphasize the peculiar nature of the prohibition act under the constitutional amendment, including the point that prosecution for several offenses is possible as the outgrowth of a single transaction.

Not a Sportsmanlike Law. Justice Holmes observed that it seemed the prohibition act was designed to permit the use of every weapon for the prosecution, even to the extent of poison and entrapment, in enforcing the law, and also remarked that defense counsel was attributing to the law a sportsmanlike character which it did not possess.

An expression of surprise, however, was drawn from Justice McReynolds, and the government should insist, as he put it, that a bootlegger who placed a gallon jug of whiskey in his automobile could be prosecuted along with his customers for conspiracy because he did not furnish the government with a list of the persons to whom he sold it.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR $21,000,000 CITY BOND ISSUE

Also Takes a Fling at B. G. A. Charges.

Mayor Dever tossed another verbal grenade into the camp of the Better Government Association yesterday. As it by way of a farewell fling at the reform body the mayor, in the course of an address at a meeting of the South End Chamber of Commerce, reiterated his denial of the charges made by the B. G. A. in Washington that Chicago is overrun with crime abetted by politics.

"What we need to help Chicago are more organizations like this chamber of commerce," he said; "organizations or business men who will criticize and advise the city in a business-like way." Chicago really has less crime than either New York or Boston, he said.

The mayor touched briefly on other problems of the city administration, stressing especially the urgency of the proposed $21,000,000 bond issue for municipal improvements to be voted on at the April primary.

Points to Need of Bridge. He pointed out the need for a bridge over the Calumet river at 100th street and the opening of more through south side streets.

"You now have four new schools under construction on the south side, including the $3,000,000 Fenger high school," the mayor stated. "This is a part of the school board's building program all over the city, for which it is to be congratulated." He said the schools must have more revenue which should come from a more fairly assessed valuation of property, especially in the loop district which is escaping its just share.

800 Business Men Attend. Nearly eight hundred south side business men crowded into the Knights of Pythias hall at Michigan avenue and 11th street to hear the address. The purpose of the meeting was to boost the interests of the district bounded by Stony Island and Western avenues, 35th street and the state line.

Among the other speakers were Theophilos Schmid, a member of the board of education, Ald. D. S. McKinlay (19th), and Ald. S. W. Govier (9th). Earl De Young, president of the chamber of commerce, presided.

Harvey Wife Shoots Mate; Claims It's Self-Defense

Adolph Butler, 41 years old, proprietor of a soft drink place at 181 East 15th street, Harvey, was shot and seriously wounded by his wife, Mary, 43 years old, yesterday morning. Her bullet struck him in the abdomen. Mrs. Butler, who was arrested by the Harvey police, declared that her husband was trying to kill her with a poker when she fired.

MODERN YOUTH AND MORAL DISCIPLINE.

Arthur C. Rich, son of a wealthy man, has been sentenced for life in a Michigan court for assault on a girl companion. There had been a disorderly automobile party with something to drink and one of the girls came out of it with a smashed face and an accusation of outrage against the young fellow who had been her escort. The jury accepted the evidence of the prosecution and the judge gave the severest sentence he could. The parents find part of their lives in ruin.

An older generation frequently looks at a younger with misgivings when it is not warranted. Some of the changes are no more important than changes in hats and nevertheless are regarded as serious by people whose years have made them so. Evidence indicates that there has been and also shows some of the causes. Present day adolescence has a greater strain of excitement. Most of them are not in themselves dangerous if they are accompanied by a proper building up of the new restraints which they make necessary. The automobile, present day dancing and music, the present day theater, etc., require compensating discipline. Society can build up an immunity.

A boy who is a competent driver can be trusted with an automobile if it has been recognized that he has a new responsibility. He has new opportunities to be dangerous to other people on the highways and he needs new restraints. New opportunities require new controls. Life has increased in stimulation, particularly for youth, and these stimulants are no new bacteria against which a moral resistance can be built up. If that were not the case modern society would soon be sunk.

Youth ten and twenty years ago had a restraint against the saloon. Immature youth sometimes drank and sometimes got drunk, but the normal adult of today will agree that out of his own young training and discipline came a restraint. It affected his attitude toward the saloon. Liquor was not illegal, but the boy had a pull away from it and even after he thought he wore the toga virilis the result of his discipline was such that if he were drinking he did not present himself to the girls of his acquaintance.

He had a code, ingrained in him, not always an absolute deterrent on all his impulses, but it kept him in mainly decent ways. This Michigan case is not isolated, but is illustrative of something which cannot be passed as unusual. It is extreme, but indicative of new conditions which have not been met with new resistance.

It is apparent that part of American youth has lost the old restraints against liquor. An improved discipline which recognizes the new factors is needed. Forcible repressions will hardly bring it. They produce adolescent furtiveness or insurrection. Real discipline has a higher moral quality and it comes part of the fiber, an essence of the being, offering the resistance which is a part of habitual conduct.

Peremptory injunctions do not produce it. When it is acquired it is accepted by the possessor as an invaluable part of the character. There are new social bacteria. There must be a new moral immunity.

EAST CHICAGO TAKES THE AIR.

Lester Ottenheimer of East Chicago, Ind., as chairman of the program committee of the Kiwanis club, begged the mayor of the town and the secretary of the chamber of commerce into talking into a microphone at a booster's meeting. It was understood that East Chicago was taking the air to tell the world how good it was. The secretary talked forty-five minutes and the mayor a half hour, and the town was as good as made forever, when it was discovered that the whole essence of Mr. Ottenheimer's program for the club's entertainment lay in the fact that the microphone was not hooked up.

The response to this discovery was mixed. Hall has a fury such as that of a woman scorned. It is that of a distinguished citizen who has been tricked into parting with his best eloquence only to discover that he hasn't been saying anything to anybody. The mayor ordered Mr. Ottenheimer arrested and put in jail and the police kept him there until the village attorney said there was no law to punish a man for playing such a trick, even if he tricked with the noblest emotions of a booster. The retort of the prominent citizens is that there ought to be a law, and there will be many to support them.

We imagine that Mr. Ottenheimer is perplexed. A program committee gets to its wit's end. If the customers are not entertained, if they get no kick at all out of a series of meetings, the chairman is out of luck. This was an inspiration for a snappy variation, but he was trifling where men cannot forgive. He had injured the amour propre. He had pulled a chair out from under the self-esteem.

It had done a funny fall. His practical joke had begun by infating the importance. Then he stuck a pin in it. A man will not even forgive himself for stepping on a banana peel.

NEW YORK'S GIFT HORSE.

Gov. Al Smith wants the state of New York to give its large canal to the federal government for nothing. The federal government could then deepen the canal for use by ocean going ships and the St. Lawrence seaway would be rendered unnecessary.

This gift horse comes with its mouth wide open, inviting inspection. The barge canal has been a failure, although traffic on it has been increasing slowly. Bonds for more than $150,000,000 spent in building the canal are still outstanding. The barge canal was not well planned. It is a heavy charge upon the taxpayers of New York, and they are getting little in return. If the federal government takes it over and makes a ship canal out of it, the money which the state spent on it may be recovered in part. That is why Al Smith wants to give the canal to the federal government, and he makes no secret of his reasons.

A special board of engineers assigned by the war department to study the various lakes to sea routes reported adversely a few days ago on the New York route. The engineers said a ship canal could be built to Albany from the lakes, but its cost would be too great to justify the expense. The proponents of the St. Lawrence route were elated.

We think that elation may have been premature. It is as certain as geography and economics can establish a certainty that a route to the great lakes from the sea for ocean going ships will be constructed before many years. The country naturally would prefer to have an all-American canal if the expense were not too heavy and other conditions were equal. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Elmer Crowl, president of the Emergency Fleet corporation, outlined the case for the all-American canal in recent letters to Chairman S. Wallace Dempsey of the house committee on rivers and harbors. They discussed the value of the New York route from the viewpoint of national defense and national development. They found a great deal to be said for the all-American route.

Powerful interests in eastern Canada have shown an inclination to obstruct the St. Lawrence project. They know that our northwest, like their own west, is insistent upon the development of the seaway, and they conclude that our government will be forced to make concessions to Canada to win Canadian support for the St. Lawrence project. They think our country can be induced to bear at least half the cost and give Canada more than her share of the power developed. Gov. Smith's proposal and the letters of two members of the cabinet should serve as a warning. The St. Lawrence route is not the only one available, though it is now generally favored in this country. The demand of this region for an outlet to the sea will continue to gain strength as it has in recent years. Our government may be forced by public opinion to build the waterway; and if our government cannot come to terms with Canada, it may be forced to build across New York.

TWO GOOD JOBS DONE.

The city council and the council finance committee have each passed measures which will benefit Chicago and make the city a more attractive place in which to live.

After months of haggling a real tile ordinance has been passed, an ordinance giving to this new building material a place in keeping with its worth, which has been attested by the United States bureau of standards, one of the most efficient branches of the federal government. The long rule of the brick monopoly was broken when the council refused to be hoodwinked by the majority report of the committee on buildings and zoning and passed instead the minority measure submitted by Ald. A. J. Horan [S218].

The council wholly replaced brick. The lesser strength of the limits its use. It is, however, more than strong enough to be used in many types of construction. The lesser cost of tile is what chiefly recommends it, and this economy will, because of the restriction of tile to smaller buildings, be of especial benefit to the small home and apartment building.

The day before the council passed the tile ordinance the finance committee recommended bond issues totaling $21,250,000. The fire department will, if the measure is approved by the voters at April 13 elections, get $1,645,000 of this sum; $2,000,000 will be put into street lights; $250,000 will erect new stop and go lights; the bureau of streets will get some new officers. By far the largest amount, however, $13,100,000, will go into street improvements; the next largest amount—$4,100,000—will be spent on bridges. And a proposition for financing a new east and west boulevard, to parallel Washington and Jackson boulevards, will be added to the bond schedule before election day.

There should be no trouble in passing such an issue. Chicago needs widened streets and especially an east and west artery adequate to the traffic demands of the west side. More bridges are absolutely necessary.

These two measures—the tile ordinance and the proposed bond issue—should do much to check the ever growing tendency to leave the city for the more congenial, less congested suburb. The new tile ordinance will make home building in the city as economical as that in the suburbs. Widened streets will do away with the traffic tangles that have made many Chicagoans prefer a twenty to forty minute ride on a commuter's express to a twenty to forty minute fight with street congestion.

Those aldermen with the sense and courage to defy the brick monopoly, which seemed to have such a hold on the building committee, and to pass the tile ordinance, and those on the finance committee who recommended the bond issue, have done well for Chicago.

Editorial of the Day

EVERY CITY'S FEARS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Mayor Dever of Chicago is thinking of going to Washington to defend his city's good name. He regards that appeal to the senate of the Better Government folks as slanderous. He knows that he himself has no alliance with thugs and gunmen and he gladly credits other public officials with being as honest as he is. He resents the blanket indictment of the Better Government petitioners. He resents the imputation that Chicago is prostrate at the feet of its underworld and unable to cope with its criminal element. As for the recent killings in the intergang feud, he thinks it is good riddance.

We venture the hope that Mayor Dever will not go to Washington to refute the silly harangues of Chicagoans who are certain Chicago would be better governed from Washington. Surely Mayor Dever does not imagine that these pests are peculiar to Chicago. They are found everywhere. Oyster Puffs has them, the same as Chicago. Don't take them seriously.

HOW TO FIT SHOES.

THIS is a very simple sort of story about a very simple subject. It is a story of the adventures of a man who went out to get a pair of shoes. He went to a good store, one of the best. The stock is good and the clerks are well trained. Nevertheless, the man who knew exactly what he wanted, took along with him an old shoe. He had on a pair of low quartered shoes and, since he was to buy high quartered shoes, he went with one old high quartered shoe that just suited him.

When he took his place the clerk removed his shoe and tried to find the size as printed in the lining. It had been come blurred. He measured the customer's foot for length and guessed at the width. The customer, being an old bird, insisted upon measurement of both the old shoes, the one worn and the other carried, as to both width and length.

Equipped with all this information, the clerk returned with a shoe that was exactly right except as to size. It was put on. It seemed too large and too narrow. The included foot spoke to that effect. The new shoe was put on the measuring scale; it was longer and narrower than the worn shoe.

Another pair of shoes was brought out and one was put on. It was shorter and wider than his predecessor. When removed and placed on the measuring scale it was right as to length, but it was too narrow. Again a new pair was brought in. One was put on the measuring scale. This shoe measured right as to both length and width.

Here was a case where, though the measure was in hand, it took one extra try to get a shoe that was short enough and two extra tries to get one that was wide enough. Had this customer not known what he wanted, and had he not gone shopping with a sample of just what he wanted, he would have had to make many tries, and possibly would not have got what he wanted, although the store had it for sale.

One point is that clerks have been taught how to sell long shoes. The fact is that they have been overtaught. As a rule, they fit their customers with shoes that are too long. It was not always so. On the other hand, they have not been taught to fit their customers with shoes that are broad enough. If a shoe is to be deficient in either of these dimensions, it is better that the deficiency should be in the length. If a shoe is too narrow at the tip, improving the toe is liable to be the result. If it is too narrow a little farther back, bunions are liable to result. Of course, bunions and extra seams are very important factors in the making of shoes. If a shoe is too narrow across the ball, the bones are crowded together at that point and a variety of troubles may result. Among them are bunions, calluses, corns, and broken arches.

All in all, more foot troubles result from narrow shoes than from short ones. Something should be done to hasten the size as printed in the lining. But these are not very important. They are not foot ruiners, while the narrow shoe is just that.

This is a contribution to the controversy that wages over who is ruining the human foot—the maker, the seller, or the buyer? May the right man win.

PROPER WEIGHTS.
E. R. P. writes: I always read your articles, as I am trying to stay on earth as long as possible, provided I am lucky in escaping gunmen and autos.

1. In your article, "Dangers in Obesity," you said the weights given generally as proper weights are average weights and not the best weights. I believe a great many people like myself would like to know what the best weights are.

2. For instance, I am 40 years old, and 5 feet 6 inches high in my stocking feet. I weigh 138. My pump friends say I am thin, but my doctor says I am fat. I am an inch taller and weigh 135, says I am overweight. Who is right? Or both wrong?

REPLY.
1. The best weights, as a rule, are about 15 pounds less than the average weights as given for people 35 years old and up.

2. The average weight for women of your age and height is about 115. The best weight is 130. Flatter both by telling each, "There is some authority for your opinion."

RENTING BY THE YEAR.
Gary, Ind., March 9.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man and a woman have been leasing a house for a year at a time and at the end of the year the landlord would give a lease after one month's rent is paid. He did not give the lease. Can he make the tenant move out before the year is up or is the verbal lease good?

THE VIGILANT COP.
Oak Park, Ill., March 9.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Upon the alleged infringement of a village ordinance (not stopping on crossing of a through street), the village police officer not catching up to the offender, but, on account of heavy traffic, until he (the officer) was out of his territory and within the limits of a neighboring village: 1. Was the officer within his right to demand the return of the party failing to stop to the officer's jurisdiction?

2. Would not the proper way have been to cause this party's arrest in the village he was in and get a warrant for his return?

1. Yes.
2. Not necessarily.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 12, 1861.

WASHINGTON.—President Lincoln's levee last night was a non-street scene. The people turned out as if they had never seen a live President before, as indeed they had not for four years. The White House was packed in every part, and the streets were filled with a crowd of people.

CHICAGO.—A. G. Garfield and Miss Minnie Manchester, daughter of B. Manchester, were married by the Rev. Arthur Swasey.

RICHMOND.—The state convention of the federal relations made majority and minority reports. The former reaffirms the doctrine of state rights and declares interference with slavery by the federal or other authorities, or the people, contrary to the constitution, offensive and dangerous. The minority report favors a border state convention at Frankfort, to exercise coercion and blame the politicians for the present condition of the country.

WASHINGTON.—An official letter from Maj. Anderson at Fort Sumter says he has but fifteen days' provisions and fuel. Political circles were feverishly excited by the report that the evacuation of Fort Pickens and Sumter had been decided upon at a cabinet meeting. Several Republican senators have declared that such a policy had been agreed upon. The National Intelligencer contains a long article receding the relinquishment of the two forts as an act of conciliation.

MONTGOMERY.—A permanent constitution for the southern confederacy was adopted, but it is kept secret. A member of the confederate congress, however, says it provides for a six year term for the president. The African slave trade is prohibited. Cabinet officers are eligible to seats in congress.

GALVESTON.—On March 4 the convention declared Texas out of the Union, and Gov. Houston issued a proclamation to that effect. The complete returns show a majority of 25,000 in a vote of 15,000. The appointment of delegates to the Montgomery government was authorized.

CHICAGO.—A single idea pervaded all healthy, able bodied, red blooded young men in Chicago yesterday when they became the recipients of the U. S. M. raid of Villa would cause the United States to send troops into Mexico. That was "If there's going to be war in Mexico I am going to do my share."

SAN ANTONIO.—Maj. Gen. Frederick Funston will not at present assume charge of the operations against the Big Bend region. The next time he will be assigned active control of the punitive expedition. Gen. Pershing is noted as an expert in guerrilla warfare and knows every spot of the country over which he will lead his troops. He covered it all years ago in the memorable pursuit of Geronimo.

WASHINGTON.—The American army is going into Mexico to stay until order is restored and Carranza demonstrates ability to prevent further incursions of outlaws into the United States. The invading Americans will number 12,000 to 15,000, and the first troops will move across the border tomorrow. Gen. Funston wired the war department a request for four additional regiments of cavalry for patrol duty on the border. In response to the request, the department ordered the First cavalry from Monterey, Cal.; the Eleventh from Rockwood, Neb.; and the Twelfth from the border.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE GYPSY CURSE.

"A curse I'll lay upon you—
That you'll never more be going
Down the little prairie roads
To sing at break of day;
And all the little dreams you held
One time were worth the knowing,
Shall hide among the sweet-grass there
Nor ever come your way!"

I kissed my hand to Duval
And I made a little song . . .
And followed down the prairie roads—
(For curses make me smile);
I said: "The gypsy curse is old
Nor she will live for long.
And things she brews within her mind
Will leave me . . . after while."

I went along the prairie roads
That ran from hill to hill,
And Youth was in my wild, young heart
And tunes were in my head;
But, somehow, when the last light went
And all the world was still,
I heard them in the sweet-grass there—
Those dreams she told were dead!

I saw them in the tall grass there
With silver on their feet,
And bodies made of gossamer—
(And every one was young);
I called to them a lulling call
Nor found my voice was sweet . . .
My tongue had lost the touch of tunes,
My young heart once had sung.

"A curse I'll lay upon you . . ."
I scoffed at witch's ire,
And thought to travel prairie roads
And never have to pay;
But gypsies have a magic
They brew within a fire . . .
A curse was laid upon me—
And I have it to this day!

How the Tea Rooms Can Help Your Spring Shopping

Breakfast in the Wedgwood room is always a quiet, pleasant start for a long day's shopping; then one of the combination luncheons in the Crystal room cuts the problem of ordering down to a minimum and saves time.

And after shopping, there's nothing quite so restful as tea and a comfortable chat with a friend in the Narcissus room, with its music and unobtrusive service.

The convenience of the Tea Room service is one of the many reasons why it is so satisfactory to do all of your spring shopping under this one hospitable roof.

CALL STRATTON SMALL'S BUFFER IN VOTING TEST

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Political circles learned yesterday why Gov. Small and Fred Lundin are running William J. Stratton, director of conservation in the governor's cabinet, for state treasurer.

Stratton, former chairman of the Lake county board and one of the governor's most active aids during his trial at Waukegan in 1923, was put in the treasury race by Small and Lundin to test out the sentiment of the state in an effort to determine the governor's present political standing.

Accused by Democrats.

While this secret was coming to light the Cook county Democratic managing committee came forth with the charge that Gov. Small has begun buying votes for his legislative candidates with the $1,000,000 "public defense fund" that he is alleged to have siphoned out of unwilling state pay rollers.

The Democratic charges were contained in the regular bulletin of the managing committee, the Democratic News.

The state machine has received strict orders to put on all the works and go the limit for Stratton. His nomination, it was pointed out, over Garrett Kinney of Peoria, now backed by the Deneen, Crowe-Barrett, Smith,

POLITICAL NOTES

Senator William B. McKinley had recovered sufficiently from his cold yesterday to resume campaign conferences. He expects to remain in Chicago until next week, when he plans a downstate speaking trip.

Frank L. Smith will open his Cook county senatorial campaign Saturday before the Illinois League of Women Voters. He will spend next week in northern Illinois counties and then come to Chicago for the balance of the campaign.

Smith headquarters yesterday announced endorsements by the Danish-American Citizens' league and the Polish Citizens' league of the south side.

Miss Harriet E. Vittum has been selected chairman of the McKinley women's organization at the Great Northern hotel headquarters.

Emmerson, and other forces, would be claimed as a great personal victory, a vindication, for the governor.

A Test for Small.

Existing conditions give the governor the opportunity of making a state-wide test of his own strength without putting himself up as a target for his foes. On top of it all Stratton's election would mean control of the treasury again by Lundin and Small, it was pointed out.

From authoritative sources it was said that the "public defense fund" will be used also in behalf of Stratton as well as legislative candidates. A healthy balance also is said to remain from the 1924 slush fund exacted from the pay rollers.

ATTACKS TAXING OF ENGINEERS TO HELP SMALL

Gov. Len Small probably has received by this time a resolution adopted by the Chicago Metropolitan chapter of the American Association of Engineers denouncing the assessments against the state highway engineers for the governor's $1,000,000 fund.

The protest was made public yesterday by William Artingstall, president of the local branch, and R. C. Kellogg, director of the seventh district of the national association, who announced that the action was taken unanimously Tuesday night at a meeting held in national headquarters, 63 East Adams street.

Although the resolutions are based on newspaper reports, it became known that the engineers had before them confidential letters of several downstate members of the state engineering staff who told of the state-wide rebellion against the assessments. Some of the language used in the resolution follows:

"The forcible collection of money by coercion from the various employees of the state of Illinois is deplorable, contemptible, and degrading, and against the good of this great commonwealth."

"Such ulterior practice is in contrast to the every right legally guaranteed to the individual by the century-old constitution as well as the laws of our state of Illinois."

"The Chicago Metropolitan chapter, American Association of Engineers, protests against such despicable methods of raising funds."

"This association enters its most vehement protest at this apparently brazen attempt to intimidate with reckless disregard for common decency."

The resolutions also requested Gov. Small "to furnish at his earliest opportunity an admission or disavowal of the charges."

It is expected that similar action by other chapters throughout the country will follow.

LADDER THIEVES WIN AGAINST PAJAMA RACER

E. J. Dick, 1523 Lincoln street, Evanston, didn't hesitate early yesterday morning when he found two burglars trying to enter his home via a ladder. In his pajamas and despite the cold night, Mr. Dick, barefooted, dashed downstairs and ran to the home of C. H. Peterson, 1609 Lincoln street. There he summoned the police.

When he reached his home again, with six patrolmen to back him, the ladder was leaning against a second story window, but the burglars were gone. Mrs. Dick and her two children still were asleep. Mr. Dick is manager of the A. E. Dick company, mtopograph dealers.

BOY HUNTED IN BIG WATER MAIN 25 FEET DOWN

Like Jean Valjean prowling the sewers of Paris, police and firemen last night invaded a great water main twenty-five feet below the surface in the northwest section of the city to seek a 15-year-old boy who was believed to have lowered himself into the main through a manhole at Melrose street and California avenue. The search extended for blocks in the great pipe, but was fruitless.

Although it was late at night, the underground quest attracted a crowd. Although the boy was not found, police remained on watch at the manhole, through which Mr. and Mrs. James Boyle, 2765 Melrose street, said they saw him descend.

The manhole was a large one, with a heavy iron cover weighing 100 pounds.

UNITY AND HOME RULE IN TRANSIT, CITY CLUB PLAN

Terminable Permits Get Conditional O. K.

Unification of transit lines and conditional terminable permits will be recommended to the City club as the basis of a plan for the satisfactory solution of Chicago's traction problem. These two principles were the main provisions embodied in a report completed yesterday by the club's committee on local transportation after a survey of the traction situation. The club is one of several civic groups that have been investigating transit conditions with the object of aiding the city in drafting a suitable ordinance.

Service First Requirement. Stating that the fundamental requirement of any plan is "service," the committee set forth its recommendations as follows: 1. Immediate unification of ownership, if desirable. 2. Conditional terminable permits, provided that: (a) The city shall be given actual financial as well as legal power to purchase; (b) All rights to the use of the streets shall be terminable by the city for nonuse or for misuse; (c) The city shall have full rights to control service, extensions, additions, and improvements; (d) The city, through its regulatory body, shall have the right to control the time of securities; (e) The permit shall provide for the methods of valuation, determination of fares, accounting, depreciation and obsolescence, termination for nonuse or misuse.

Wait for Council, Is Advice. The committee advised the club not to undertake the expensive task of drafting the ordinance into a specific ordinance until some formal measure has been prepared and submitted to the city council. Mayor Dwyer declined to comment on the committee's recommendations. He will have nothing further to say on the traction situation, he explained, until the city council committee on local transportation completes its investigations.

EVANSTON FLU EPIDEMIC DENIED BY HEALTH CHIEF

Although a number of cases of influenza have been reported in Evanston recently, Dr. Clarence T. Boone, the city health commissioner, asserted yesterday that there was no epidemic and that the conditions were to be expected at this season of the year. "Many of the cases tentatively diagnosed as influenza are colds or grip," he declared. He added that six cases at the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity house, which is under quarantine, are doubtful.

COUNTY JUDGE'S VALUE PUT AT 25,000 VOTES

That's Why Hot Factional
Battle Centers There.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Back of the scenes in local politics, the practical side of a quite different campaign from the candidates and the politicians out in front. For illustration, consider the county judgeship, which is the center of the fight between the rival Republican Crowe-Barrett and Democrat Deneen slates. It's the job, on which as usual both sides are concentrating greatest energy, for the reason that it means control of the election machinery.

Joseph F. Savage, the Crowe-Barrett candidate, is making the walk-in ring about the home rule and denunciation of the world court.

Judge Daniel P. Trude, the Deneen candidate, is seeking it to bi-partisan alliance. The little cards the gentlemanly voters distribute at the doors of the voters to support him "to defeat bi-partisanship."

Question of Practical Politics. Nightly, a small army of spellbinders is on the stump whooping it up on national and international issues, this being, experience proves, the stuff that the biggest hand from the audience.

Obviously enough, the practical boys back in the wings say the spellbinders are merely spellbinding. As they view it, the issue in the county judges fight is 15,000 to 25,000 votes.

How many Mr. Savage is to push over the world court or whether Judge Trude is to destroy the bi-partisan ball, well, but whether the Crowe-Barrett group or the Deneen camp is to control the machinery of election in Cook county. In the last decade there have been times when it has been estimated that control of election machinery was worth 10,000 votes, chalked up not by the electronic itself but by the juggling of judges and clerks.

Fewer Votes Stolen Now. Some astute politicians declared yesterday that the actual number of votes that can be stolen in a Chicago election, under normal conditions with a good county judge on the bench, does not exceed 5,000 or 6,000. A study some years ago among those who know such things, indicated that under the worst conditions the most that could be stolen in a Chicago election was 20,000 votes. This was based on expert testimony.

Since then, it is pointed out, things have improved. The number of voters has grown, but there are more women among the judges and clerks and as a rule they do great work. Besides, the opportunities for stealing votes have decreased because the rival sides watch each other closer. Although nearly every election brings cases of fraud and strong arm work at the polls, all groups insist the count is getting more and more honest, largely because it is harder to cheat. There are certain wards, however, where fraudulent voting is taken as a natural phenomenon.

In the primaries opportunities are regarded as greater than in elections. The vote is smaller, the pluralities of the winners are smaller, and in close cases a few votes gathered here and there might turn defeat into victory. And, so some of the big politicians say, it is the primaries where fraud is most marked. Neither side, of course, wants to get control of the county bench in order to promote cheating in its behalf, but it wants the job as a protection. They all say that.

Then there is the patronage, the appointment of judges and clerks and the selection of polling places. It averages, they figure, two and a half jobs to a precinct, worth, may, $25, and every job ought to be worth two votes. The polling place lease ought to be good for three votes. Making allowance of various sorts, some insiders figure the patronage itself is worth 12,000 to 15,000 votes. Add a conservative number of votes saved by preventing the other side from stealing them, or acquired through the simple process of annexation by way of the little pencil under the finger nail, and all told control is put down as worth 25,000 as a conservative guess.

Novel Pockets, Tuxedo Revers, and Taffeta Ties Mark the Misses' Coats $95 to $125

Spring 1926 reveals herself in three interesting new coat ways: Pockets play an important part, whether they be on the outside or in the lining. Tuxedo revers and the high collar still persist. Sparkling plaid taffeta is youthful, used for lining the coat and forming a set-in tie to loop once at the throat.

Charmeen, Candia, Kashmirien, Twill, Cheviot, Serapheen, Tweeds and Mixtures are at Stevens in both straight-line and cape back styles, trimmed with novelty silk or metallic stitching, and the Spring furs such as Ermine, Natural Squirrel, Jap Fox, Krimmer, Caracul, Badger, and Bleached Martin.

Many interesting models for immediate wear are to be found at Stevens. Crochet Vases, Grosgrain, Felt, and Novelty Straws are represented in bright colorings, many with novelty trimmings.

MILLINERY—FIFTH FLOOR

The Rustle of Spring may be heard in Misses' Taffeta Frocks $40 and $50

Youthful, but with a distinctive dignity, the new Taffeta Frocks are exceedingly correct. Tiered ruffles trim some of them in a bouffant manner. Other frocks depend upon organza to set them off. Colors include cuckoo, black, and navy. The demoiselle's wardrobe is incomplete unless she can curtsy to Spring in crisp Taffeta!

A frock that is new in Lanvin's way is sketched. The trim high collar fastens with wee taffeta buttons at the back.

Boysish straightness combines with captivating femininity in the new Misses' Suits for Spring. The separate vestee is a feminine counterpart of a man's dinner vest. Tuxedo effects with satin facings comprise the "smoking," worn by the young fashionables at Chicago's tea dansants. Charmeen, Twills, Twill Cords, and Cordons are developed in single and double-breasted models—in hairline stripes, black, or navy.

BRITISH MINERS MEET PREMIER ON COAL CRISIS

Owners Also Opposed to King's Board's Plan.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]
LONDON, March 11.—The report of the royal commission on the coal industry, which was hurriedly issued last night, has satisfied nobody. Instead of relieving the acute labor situation, which is expected to come to a head when the existing subsidy expires on May 1, it is believed the crisis will become more acute, and unless a settlement is reached a nation-wide strike seems almost certain.

The mine royalty owners are angry at the suggested nationalization of the industry, while the mine owners, although the report is against nationalization of the mines, do not like the mine royalty nationalization, which they regard as on the thin edge of socialism.

Miners See Baldwin.

The mine owners also reject the suggested government interference with their business, such as compulsory profit sharing and minimum wages, while the dealers are furious at the suggestion that the municipalities compete with them by distributing coal. The miners are not satisfied because, although the report recommends the maintenance of the seven and one-half hour day, it also suggests wage reductions for some classes. The miners, moreover, distrust the profit sharing idea and are not too friendly to close governmental control without nationalization. They are also alarmed at the suggestion that the unprofitable pits be closed and the pronouncement against a renewal of the coal subsidy.

One thing on which both the miners and mine owners are agreed is that something must be done to tide over the industry after the stoppage of the subsidy until the reorganization is complete, and it is significant that the miners' leaders late this evening had a long conference with Prime Minister Baldwin in Downing street.

It has been suggested that instead of an out and out subsidy the government might provide funds in the form of loans to the weak mines, repayable when the industry is on its feet again. This would apply to about seventy-three per cent of the mines, which, the report states, would have lost money if it had not been for the subsidy.

ARE POLICE HUNT EX-SOLDIER.
The aid of the police was requested yesterday in a search for Harrington Clanshaw, who has been missing since he was discharged from the army at Fort Sheridan on Feb. 7, 1923. At that time army officials reported that Clanshaw's unit was still in the hands of the enemy.

MRS. THORNE'S LAWYER CALLS SUIT BLACKMAIL

Just a sensational bit of blackmail instituted by an impecunious adventurer, is the way Attorney Harry Markheim, counsel for Mrs. Katherine C. Thorne, widow of William C. Thorne, late vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co., and divorced wife of "Billy" Camp, yesterday characterized Cyrus R. Shipman's $100,000 suit against Mrs. Thorne.

In his declaration, filed Wednesday, Shipman, who has traded an Oregon farm for a suite at the Surf hotel, demands the money as payment which, he alleges, Mrs. Thorne promised him for speeding up Billy Camp's divorce suit in New York from Eliza Proctor Otis Camp in 1918.

Court Accepts Blood Test to Prove Babe's Paternity

VIENNA, March 11.—(AP)—A scientific blood test has been accepted by a court as conclusive evidence in determining the paternity of a child. A

Vienna judge ruled today that a young engineer was not the father of the child in a case brought by an unmarried mother for alimony. The court accepted the testimony of scientists that the defendant's blood was in "group 4," the child's in "group 3," and the mother's in "group 2."

VAMPIRE AUTO CLAIMS VICTIM; DEATH TOLL 141

WOMAN CASHIER ROBBED OF $2,000 BY LONE BANDIT

Miss Edna McElherne, 4953 Washington boulevard, for seventeen years cashier of the Livingston Bakery company, was held up in her cage on the second floor at 3015 West Lake street early last night by a lone bandit, who took $2,000 from her. Miss McElherne's sister, Florence, who had called to go home with her, was in the cage at the time. The holdup happened just after all the bakery drivers had turned in their cash for the day and Miss McElherne was counting the receipts. Suddenly the lights in her cage went out. She walked to a hall door, thinking some one was playing a joke on her, and was confronted by the bandit. He forced her back to the cage, made both women get down on their hands and knees in a small vault at the rear, and then scooped up the money and ran out.

POLICE STUMPED BY LOOP PARKING, COLLINS ADMITS

Enforcement of the ordinance restricting loop parking time to thirty minutes between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. is an impossibility as a practical police problem, Chief of Police Collins admitted yesterday. One policeman, he said, cannot watch more than fifteen or twenty cars at a time, and even if closely watched, it is easy for a driver to move a block and continue to add to the congestion that is costing the city $190,000 a day. "The only remedy is to stop parking in the loop altogether from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.," Chief Collins declared. "Wacker drive and the new stop and go lights have helped, but a ban on parking would speed up traffic a third faster." "Two new traffic lanes could be opened up if the curbs were cleared. As it is now, street cars use the middle of the street and there is barely room for one line of autos to squeeze in on either side." Survey Upholds Chief. Results of a survey in the loop yesterday upheld the chief's remarks. Not only was the thirty minute midday law widely ignored, but also that prohibiting parking from 4 to 6:30 p. m. Madison street at 4:40, forty minutes after parking "deadline," was flooded with stored cars from Michigan avenue west to the river. Monroe, Washington, and Randolph streets revealed the same parking conditions at 5 p. m. and the alley between Wabash avenue and State streets in the Randolph to Lake block, was jammed with machines, leaving a single lane. On the dot of 4 p. m., however, officers along Michigan avenue began clearing their beats and by 4:30 the boulevard was practically clear of stored cars. But that is the work of the park police, not the city force. Traffic Plan Outlined. Speaking before the City club at a luncheon yesterday, Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the Chicago Plan commission, outlined the system of through traffic streets which the commission has just submitted to the city council. "There are forty-four of the proposed routes, twenty-five east and west, fifteen north and south, and three diagonal," he said. This system should not be confused with the system of "major streets" upon which the commission is now at work, Mr. Taylor explained. The latter are commercial streets which are to be improved. They include Michigan, Western, Ashland, and Ogden avenues, 23d and La Salle streets, and Roosevelt road.

BRITAIN ASKED TO GIVE 212 MILLION FOR ARMY UPKEEP

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, March 11.—The attention of Britons was turned to government economy today, with the publication of the economy bill and army and civil service estimates, following the royal commission's report yesterday. It is estimated that this year will show a saving of 1 per cent in the national expenditure, amounting to $35,000,000, against a budget of nearly $4,000,000,000. The trivialness of the saving already is arousing critics, who deprecate the economy bill as tortuous and incomprehensible, and worse than a Chinese puzzle.

More important is the fact that the army estimates are reduced $10,000,000, the sum asked for the army being $212,000,000. The estimates show that the British army, exclusive of India, totals 485,000 men.
Cut Civil Service $60,000,000.
There is a reduction of $60,000,000 in the civil service estimates. The economy bill aims to reduce expenditures by cutting down the funds for health insurance, unemployment insurance, election costs, and education, and to increase the revenue by stamping letters and merchant shipping fees. The army strength shows a decrease of 1,900 men during the year. The reduction for upkeep, from $311,000,000 in 1922 to $212,000,000 this year is more than 33 per cent.
Praise for "Tommy Atkins."
Tribute is paid to the personnel of the British troops and their higher standard of physique, morale and character since the war.
About $1,500,000,000 is asked by the civil service and revenue departments, including $95,000,000 for the coal subvention. Only small increases are asked by the government departments, such as the home office and the foreign office, while more is asked by the department of education, despite the recommendation for reductions.

About $5,000,000 more is asked for agriculture, while the estimate for unemployment relief drops $2,500,000.

FINED $300 FOR PLAYING DOCTOR MINUS LICENSE

Harry Klein, 441 North Albany avenue, was fined $300 and costs yesterday by Judge Joseph McCarthy on a charge of practicing medicine for the last eight years without a license. Klein was arrested a month ago by John Follmer, inspector for the state department of registration and education, in an office behind a drug store at 2601 South Kedzie avenue.
Klein, according to testimony, had never attended a medical college, his medical knowledge coming from books which he had studied.

SCALISI BLAMES DEAD GENNA FOR POLICE MURDERS

If the story of John Scalisi, Genna gangster, who, with Albert Anselmi, is charged before Judge William V. Brothers in the Criminal court with the murder of Policeman Charles Walsh, is to be believed, Mike Genna is the only one to be blamed for the killing of the two policemen.
Scalisi took the witness stand in his own behalf late yesterday and told of the part he played in the crime last June, which ended in the killing of two policemen, the wounding of a third, and the killing of Genna.
Saw Guns in Auto.
"Anselmi said he had to collect some money for cheese and asked me to go with him in Genna's car," he said. "When I got into the automobile I saw some shotguns and revolvers in back of the car, and Mike Genna said he was only taking them to his brother's home."

The gangster, however, admitted that when Genna saw the police car following, although he would not admit he knew it was a squad car, that Genna increased the speed of his own automobile and told his companions to each take a revolver from the floor and be prepared.
500 Gallons Produced Daily.
Frank Giffano, 1209 28th avenue, Cicero, former bookkeeper for the Gennas, admitted that the Sicilian bootleggers, working night and day, produced 500 gallons of alcohol daily.
The defense produced a new witness in Edward Arendt, 7070 South Washington avenue. He described in detail the shooting and placed all the blame upon the police. On cross examination by Prosecutor William H. McSwiggan, he mixed his story up so that when he concluded it did not coincide with the testimony of any other witness.

COOLIDGE WON'T LET NEW YORKERS RUSH CANAL PLAN

Calmly Waits Report on St. Lawrence Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Attempts to rush President Coolidge and members of his cabinet endorsing construction of the so-called all-American ship canal through New York state before the joint engineering board files its report on the practicability of the St. Lawrence seaway are doomed to failure, it developed today.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, principal adviser of the President on waterway development matters, asserted today, after a group of New York congressmen had urged President Coolidge to support the all-American ship canal, that no attempt would be made to decide between the merits of the two alternate routes to the seaway until both reports were ready for examination.

Spawny Report Ready May 15.
It was further stated at the department of commerce that there was virtually no chance that the St. Lawrence report would be ready in time for congress to act on it during this present session. The earliest date at which the report can be expected is May 15, it was stated.

Because of the action of Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur in praising the military advantages of an all-American canal, a determined effort is being made by New York congressmen to win favorable action on that project immediately.

Senator Wadsworth and Representatives Walworth and Dempsey (all Rep., N. Y.) presented the arguments for the New York route to the President.

Attack St. Lawrence Cost.
"We told the President," said Mr. Dempsey, "that the New York route is by far the best because of military and economic reasons. We pointed out that the St. Lawrence route might cost as high as $2,000,000,000 before it is completed."

The President also was told, members of the delegation said, that all the big steamship companies and a large section of the middle west, including many persons in Chicago, wanted the all-American route.

INVESTIGATION OF PACKERS PUSHED BY U. S. OFFICIALS

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—While refusing to divulge details of the investigation of conditions in the Chicago packing industry, officials of the department of agriculture today stated that inspectors at Chicago had been ordered to push the inquiry to the limit, regardless of who was hit.
"We have ordered the inspectors to get all the facts," Walter G. Campbell, director of the regulatory work, said tonight. "The inspectors were first sent to Chicago in connection with the investigation of the Chicago Producers' Commission association, which resulted in the suspension of that organization for violation of the packers and stockyards act."

"It was reported to us that irregularities were found in other places. Hence inspection conditions were investigated. But we cannot give out anything more. To do that might spoil the whole effects of the inquiry."

RELIES ON PRAYER TO CLOSE UP 20 ROADHOUSES

Campaign of prayer against twenty roadhouses in the vicinity is being carried on by the residents of Lansing, Oak Glen, and Munster, Illinois, villages west of Hammond, Ind.

Ten days ago a dozen persons gathered in the Lansing Methodist church and started their prayer meetings, which have been held every night since. Last night it was said more than 500 attended.

No far zone of the roadhouses has been closed, but the Rev. Benjamin Mickie Brown, evangelist, asserted prayer meetings will continue until the roadhouse keepers voluntarily quit. No efforts have been made to obtain the aid of government or state enforcement agencies in closing the places.

FRENCH ENVOY AND MELLON IN DEBT DISCUSSION

Prepare Groundwork for Negotiations.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and the French ambassador, M. Berenger, have had several conversations lately in regard to the debt situation. It was learned at the treasury today. While these conversations have been informal, it is reported that considerable progress has been made in preparing the groundwork for the formal negotiations which will be held before the debt funding commission.

Ambassador Berenger has furnished Secretary Mellon with additional statistics in regard to the French capacity to pay which were requested at the time of the ambassador's first interview with the chairman of the American debt funding commission two months ago.

France's Capacity to Pay.
In line with the administration's policy of trying to reach a debt settlement on the basis of the individual nation's capacity to pay, these figures which the ambassador has submitted to Secretary Mellon are understood to be constituting the basis of the conversations which are now in progress and which serve as the starting point for the formal negotiations to follow.

While the French capacity to pay is still the subject of discussion, it is not possible, according to reliable authorities, to advance any exact amount of annual installments which France might be able to meet.

Formal Negotiations Soon.

With satisfactory progress being made in the preliminaries, it was indicated in a high official quarter today that the opening of formal negotiations on the French debt question, with Ambassador Berenger appearing before the debt funding commission, may be a matter of the near future.

The French debt question is not expected to be taken up formally until after the senate had acted on the Italian debt settlement now pending before that body.

U. S. SPLIT WITH MEXICO URGED IN RESOLUTION

Washington, D. C., March 11.—[Special.]—Immediate withdrawal of recognition from the Calles government in Mexico as a final protest against that administration's policy toward foreign religious institutions and schools is urged in a concurrent resolution offered in the house today by Representative Boylan (Dem., N. Y.).

It was in response to a previous resolution introduced by Mr. Boylan that Secretary of State Kellogg furnished the house foreign affairs committee with state department records of recent expulsions of American missionaries, priests, nuns, and school teachers.

Today's resolution asserts that the Calles government, "in defiance of those enlightened principles of tolerance which identify all civilized states," has closed institutions of learning identified with any religious cult, regardless of whether the schools were conducted by Mexican citizens or foreigners.

New Ice Treatment A Real Beautifier

Every Beauty Doctor knows the value of Ice Treatments for the complexion, but recently an English Beauty Specialist found that even better results could be obtained by simply rubbing the face, neck or hands with a little ordinary Ice-Mint either just before retiring at night or whenever one desires to look their best.

The reaction of the ice-mint on the skin not only brings the color to the cheeks the same as an ice treatment, but it also holds the color there longer and makes the skin soft, firm and more youthful in appearance. Wrinkles will soon be a thing of the past to the woman who cares for her skin. Many have already made themselves look years younger by these simple Ice-Mint treatments and Druggists say they are having an enormous demand for it as the cost is little and it is positively a delight to any woman who loves a good complexion and nice hands and skin.

TUNNEY BOUT WITH STRIBLING IS CALLED OFF

Promoters Take to the Fire Escapes in Miami.

The local community chest, which is a charitable fund.

After meditating on the intricacies of the deal and the possibilities of his fight, Gibson came in this morning and told the business men that he had changed his mind and would have to have the outstanding $45,000 of his guarantee by noon Thursday, as stipulated in the original contract. At this the business men threw up the sponge and tossed the responsibility right back into Jess Baugh's lap.

In the meantime Mr. Darby Kelly, a noted al fresco orator, who yodels the names and weights of the fighters in the rings around Chicago, was eating lozenges and winding up his training for his part in the event. He said his voice was in the pink of condition and that he would have no excuse to offer if he should bark a sour note.

In the early days of the promotion the optimistic Mr. Baugh sent Mr. Kelly a round trip ticket between Chicago and Miami and paid him $150 cash in advance, which puts Mr. Darby Kelly in a class with the late Enrico Caruso as a vocalist.

When Mr. Baugh came here he promised Tunney $50,000 and Stribling $15,000 for a decision bout. He paid Tunney $2,500 the day they signed the articles and Stribling got $1,500.

Both fighters were to have received $5,000 more on March 1. Gibson is said to have collected about $2,500 of this amount and Stribling got $1,000 on March 1 and four other amounts of one thousand each on later dates as the money came in from ticket sales. Meantime Baugh was building a rather good wooden arena with a seating capacity of about thirty thousand at a cost of about one dollar per seat. The committee of business men got the details of the confused enterprise the arena was paid for out of the advance sales, and there was no money left to complete the guarantee to the fighters today.

The county prosecutor's attention has been attracted to the situation in an informal way, but one of his assistants expressed the opinion that the optimistic Mr. Baugh was liable to nothing more serious than several thousand individual suits by individual ticket holders for the return of their three dollars or five to twenty-five dollars each.

M'NAMARA AND GEORGETTI CLING TO BIKE LEAD

New York, March 12.—(Special.)—McNamara and Georgetti, leading the field in the six day bike race for nearly twenty-eight hours, lost it during a seven and a half hour rest period. The national 15 minute jam shortly after 11 o'clock last night, only to regain it after midnight. Instead of being a run-away for the Italian-American combination, as it at one time appeared, five teams are now up in the thick of the fray and the race is still in the making. In the jam which produced general shifting of standings 14 laps were stolen. Besides those that were gained by the Walker-McBeath and Beckman-Brockhouse combinations, Grimm and Winter, Lacourney and Wambert, Stockely and Goosen, and Spencer and Benvenuto each got a brace, while Doburn and Peiri gained one with McNamara and Georgetti.

HOFF SMASHES INDOOR BROAD JUMP RECORD

Washington, D. C., March 11.—(AP)—Charley Hoff, pole vaulter extraordinary, who is making Georgetown university his training headquarters, today displayed another of his athletic wars by unofficially breaking the world's indoor broad jump record, at 23 feet 3 inches. He is preparing for the all round contest to be held under Knights of Columbus auspices at Madison Square Garden, New York, March 16.

The world's indoor broad jump record is officially placed at 23 feet 14 inches. Georgetown sport authorities said, and is held by William A. Dowling, who made it a year ago at New York in an intercollegiate contest.

Cloister Wins Seventh Miami Stake by Head

Miami, Fla., March 11.—(Special.)—Cloister, son of Prior Marcus, won an exciting head verdict over Cligue in the Longwood purse, the racing feature here today. Although Jockey L. Morris kept Cligue in the lead most of the way, Jockey George Ellis, astride the winner, came up on the last turn and was in front from then until the finish. The race was at 1-14 miles.

It was the second victory of the day for Jockey Ellis and the seventh for Cloister since the opening of the season here. He is owned by J. McGee. Black Bart was third. The winner's time was 1:47.34.

Pretty Helen Easily Beats British Beauty

[Chicago Tribune From Service.]
[Copyright, 1928, by The Chicago Tribune.]
NICE, France, March 11.—Miss Joan Ridley, described as the "prettiest girl in tennis," was an easy victim for Miss Helen Wills today, 6-0, 6-2, in the quarter finals of the women's singles in the Nice club tournament. Miss Wills thus reached the semi-finals, wherein she will meet the French veteran, Miss Jay Peters.

After giving Miss Ridley a tennis lesson the American champion, waited pleasantly to a victory, 6-0, 6-2, in the quarter finals of the women's singles in the Nice club tournament. Miss Wills thus reached the semi-finals, wherein she will meet the French veteran, Miss Jay Peters.

Miss Wills still is suffering from a bad cold, which forced her to breathe through her mouth and frequently wipe her streaming eyes.

Miss Wills lost two games in the singles today experimenting with a new cut service which gives the ball a slow, baffling bounce and is a puzzling change of pace after her usual cannon ball delivery. It keenly interested Papa and Mama Lenglen and other Suzanne scouts, who occupied ring-side seats.

K. O. PUNCHERS CLASH TONIGHT AT E. CHICAGO

Schlaiffer and Callahan
Await Battle.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The knockout punch, magnet for the boxing fans, will be on exhibition tonight at East Chicago, where Morris Schlaiffer of Omaha and Shuffie Callahan, Chicago Heights, meet in the wind-up of Jim Mullin's little show. They will box ten rounds or less and will scale 155 pounds at three o'clock this afternoon.

Chicago fans recall Schlaiffer's great fight against Mickey Walker at the stockyards in 1921. In this bout Morris had all the best of the milling for five rounds but in the sixth he started to trade punches with the champion and was sent to the mat for the count. Jimmy Clabby in the East Chicago arena, where he also gave Patsy Rocco a trimming.

Both Pack Wallop.
Callahan has put up some good fights in the same arena. His clean knockout of Johnny Mendelsohn of Milwaukee was his most recent accomplishment, although his win by the same route over Terry Gartin of Denver still is fresh in the minds of those who saw the bout.

Boxing is foreign to both. They are strictly punchers. Each has shown ability to assimilate punishment, and if one or the other is knocked down early in the fray the fight probably will go on, as each is game to the core.

Bel, London in Semi-Finals.
Six other bouts, including some well known fighters, will support the main event. Archie Bell and Jackie London will mingle in the six round semi-final at 121 pounds. The other bouts will bring together Barney McGraw and Billy Kramer, Chick Nesell and Marty Walsh, Irish Mickey Cone and Ernie Peters, Al Kline and Ray Olson, and Paul Allen and Patsy Boyle.

A regular train on the Illinois Central will leave from the Randolph street terminal at 6:35 o'clock.

CLEVELAND NIPS BRUINS, 25 TO 14

The Bruins had a 10 to 6 advantage at the end of the first period and held the Chicago from sinking a field goal, but relaxed in the second period.

Minnesota Downs Badgers, 2-1, in Big Ten Hockey Title

Minneapolis, March 11.—(AP)—Minnesota's Big Ten championship hockey team maintained unblemished its strong record for the season by beating Wisconsin, 2 to 1, in the season's finale here tonight.

IGNATIUS WINS SECOND PLACE IN CAGE RACE

The St. Ignatius heavyweight basketball team clinched second place in the Chicago Catholic High School league title race last night, defeating St. Patrick, 23 to 22, on the losers' floor.

A brilliant rally in the second half overcame St. Patrick's 15 to 8 advantage of the first period and a basket in the last minute of play by Center Murphy won the game for St. Ignatius.

New 15th Hole to Boom Golf at Riverside

BY MORROW KRUM.

There's to be a different fifteenth hole at the Riverside Country club this year and, according to James Meehan, the professional, it will be one of the best birdie holes on the course. The fifteenth at Riverside measures 530 yards, par 5.

Last year the green of the fifteenth made it an unfair hole. The green sloped to the side, a slope that ruined many a birdie.

Take Out the Slope.

A man with a strong tee shot and a good long brassie shot would make this green in two shots, giving him a chance for a birdie if he could sink the ball with two putts. But often the brassie shot landed on the green and then trickled down the side slope off the green. The good brassie shot might end up no better than a sliced brassie shot which did not land on the green at all.

This year the hole—and it will be ready for play on May 1—will be a fair chapter in Riverside's eighteen. The green will not slope to either side of the fairway, but toward the tee. The player with a long, straight brassie shot will probably see his ball land and stick on the green, making the birdie easier and the hole fair.

Course Not So Easy.

James Meehan, who is about to start on his seventh year at Riverside, said yesterday the change in the fifteenth hole will make the course much better in the scratch player's eyes.

"Of course, everybody says Riverside is an easy course," said Meehan. "But just the same the stars come out here and shoot 75 and 76 and 77."

Seek Heavy Penalty for Vamp Autoist

BY J. L. JENKINS.

A maximum fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for five years is recommended for national adoption in vampire automobile accident cases by the Hoover committee on uniform traffic law enforcement. Where the automobile driver "hits and runs," the committee believes, the heaviest penalty in the entire traffic code should be assessed.

"Fines are the only feasible penalties for small traffic law offenses," says the official committee report, which will be considered for national adoption in this month's safety conference in Washington, D. C. "Fines have a deterrent effect if increased with each subsequent offense. Imprisonment is a much stronger deterrent than a fine, and more frequent use is recommended for serious offenses.

Difference in Ages Lessened by Common Interests and Tastes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Ellen is 24. A man twenty-five years her senior is in love with her and wants to marry her. He is a childless widower, cultured and well set financially. Ellen is what you would call a serious, student type. She has never known popularity as her classmates have known it. Rarely ever in college was she included in invitations to dances or parties. However, she was not unhappy, since she had her books, a sister and a mother companion who seemed to fill her life. Until this man entered. Though twenty-five years her senior, she has gotten from him a companionship, an understanding, sympathy and respect that in turn has converted him into an ideal to her.

"Her friends stop up to her now with taunts about being an old man's darling. Her mother and sister regret in her hearing the lack of romance which a man so much older can't supply."

"He's old enough to be your father, Ellen," was her mother's comment.

Marrying a man old enough to be your father is a hazardous undertaking if you stop to visualize yourself in ten, fifteen, twenty years ahead. To a certain type of girl it would be hazardous the first year of marriage. But here's a serious minded girl, admittedly not popular with younger men, finding some one who loves books as well as she does, who, like her, is not interested in sports or dancing, some one who thinks as she does about all the important things of life. Is it fair to try to persuade her against marriage? The firmest basis for marriage is happy, interesting companionship and understanding. Most girls, of course, will find such things only in men of their own age. And the natural way is for youth to mate with youth and to grow old together. But if you can't be young together, the next best is to have so many interests in common you can pull together.

HAROLD TEEN—AND A SWEET TIME WAS HAD BY ALL

If the bride is a girl of strong enough character, clearly defined ideas and rather unusual tastes, it is wise not to listen to those friends who talk facetiously about an old man's darling. Marriage is a so entirely individual, one rule will not cover every case.

My cousin was spending the night at our house last August, and, though it was still hot weather, he brought a wool blanket over the top of the bed and retired.

Cousin left on an early morning train and when I went to make up the bed I discovered what I had done. The poor fellow had slept in a bed with nothing over him but this blanket! There wasn't even a sheet, except the one under him, and the family part was we had so many sheets and the week before had just bought new ones.

That was cousin's first visit at our house and I'll bet it is the last. It certainly was my most embarrassing moment.

WANTED-FEMALE HELP.

Dear Betty:
Just landed a dandy job. Went to see Miss Allan about a position as telephone operator and was taken on immediately. This work surely is interesting and I am learning fast. Some awfully nice girls started with me. We get good pay right from the beginning and there is more for us later on.

Our recreation rooms are great. Will see you soon and tell you all about it. Miss Allan wants quite a number of girls to take up this fascinating work. She is anticipating a very busy summer on account of the Eucharistic and other conventions. Why don't you go down and have a talk with her? These positions are all permanent.

Lots of love,

PEGGY.

WANTED-FEMALE HELP.

Dear Betty:
Just landed a dandy job. Went to see Miss Allan about a position as telephone operator and was taken on immediately. This work surely is interesting and I am learning fast. Some awfully nice girls started with me. We get good pay right from the beginning and there is more for us later on.

Our recreation rooms are great. Will see you soon and tell you all about it. Miss Allan wants quite a number of girls to take up this fascinating work. She is anticipating a very busy summer on account of the Eucharistic and other conventions. Why don't you go down and have a talk with her? These positions are all permanent.

Lots of love,

PEGGY.
